

RECREATIONAL MARIJUANA PROGRAM

PACKAGING AND LABELING

Label Checklist and Generic Label Examples

The label includes all text, logos, pictures, and graphics printed on or affixed to a package. A generic label is a label that contains only the required information listed in the rule and has no graphics, pictures, or logos anywhere on the package. Generic labels do not need to be submitted to the OLCC for approval.

The chart below provides the required information for each product type and an example of a generic label. Keep in mind that these are only examples - generic labels do not have to list information in exactly the same way. As you can see below, only the required information appears on the label. The required information can appear on more than one panel. If using more than one panel, please remember that the principal display panel is the portion of the label that is most likely to be seen when on display for sale.

All labels must have a principal display panel. This is the part of the label that would most likely be presented to the consumer when the item is on display for sale. Because generic labels cannot contain any logos, pictures, graphics, or additional text other than what is required by rule, the principal display panel is the part of the label that contains the universal symbol, net weight/volume, and product identity.

The product identity and net weight must be in bold font. The product identity, net weight (or volume), and universal symbol must be on the same panel and visible at the same time when looking at the packaged item. See the Packaging and Labeling Guide for more information.

The generic labels are only examples. The names and information are fake.

Label information can be placed on different parts of the package and still be compliant. For example, all of the rule requirements can be included on one sticker or the information can be split up on different parts of the package. However, certain information must always appear on the front of the package on the principal display panel.

In this example, there are two label panels instead of one. The principal display panel is the panel on the left. When the product is displayed on the shelf, this is the panel that will be seen by the consumer, patient, or designated primary caregiver. Note that the principal display panel contains the universal symbol, the product identity, and the net weight. Also note that the net weight is on the bottom 30% of the label and the area surrounding the net weight is free of text. Any required information can appear on a secondary label except for the information that must be on the principal display panel. The side label panel can be oriented vertically instead of horizontally.

Medical Grade Product Labels

If a licensee is making a medical grade product - one that is intended for OMMP patients only - the product will need to be labeled using the same checklist above but with two changes:

1. The required warning language will be changed as follows: “For use by OMMP patients only. Keep out of reach of children. Do not drive a motor vehicle while under the influence of marijuana.”
2. The licensee must add the medical grade symbol (pictured on the right) to the principal display panel.

Before a licensee can make or sell a medical grade product, the licensee must properly register with the OLCC. Please check out the “Forms and Publications” page on the OLCC website for the registration form.

SMALL CONTAINER LABELS

OAR 333-007-0090(4) provides that if a container is too small to fit all of the information required that container may have a label that includes at a minimum the information in the checklist below.

All other required label information not listed in the table below must be contained on an outer container or package, inside a peel-back or accordion label, or on a leaflet or hangtag that accompanies the marijuana item. If an outer container is used, all labeling information, including the information listed in the table below, must be on the outer container.
